

Charity Art Winner

Jill McKay's Art Trail Centre students in Ferndown have successfully raised £250 for charity at their annual Christmas charity draw, Students donated over 60 prizes, and the main draw prize was an original Charles Evans watercolour which was kindly framed by Bruce Songhurst of West Moors.

David Barr from Corfe Mullen who won the painting said " I am staggered and delighted to have won. " He went on to say, "After returning to join one of Jill's workshops recently I felt so relaxed and at home that I have decided to book a January course. I didn't get good marks for art at school, and what Jill has taught me most is that I am capable of producing good results."

Part of the proceeds will be donated to the local charity 'Coping with Chaos' which provides support and activities for families with disabled children. Taster watercolour workshops are being held on various dates in the New Year especially for newcomers to the Art Trail Centre.
